ACM CHIIR 2018 Student Award for "Searching as Learning"

This year we offer an ACM CHIIR Student Award within the area of "Searching as Learning". Student Awards are given to authors who are currently students or who were students at the time of submission of their papers. Preference in awards is given to students who are first authors and will present the paper at the conference.

The size of the award given is 160 US dollars and is intended to help student authors attend ACM CHIIR 2018 Conference.

This Award intended to help student authors attend ACM CHIIR conference 2018.

The Award is administered by the ACM CHIIR Student Award Committee.

To apply for the ACM CHIIR 2018 Student Award for "Searching as Learning", the student should submit the following:

Requirements:
- A completed application form (below)
- A short resume of the research area of "Searching as learning" in which the student is involved.

Application deadline:        11 March, 2018.
Award winner Announcement: Conference banquet 13 March, 2018

Please, send the application form to:
Associate Professor Preben Hansen
preben@dsv.su.se

Associate Professor Preben Hansen (Stockholm University,
Assistant Professor Claudia Hauff (Delft University of Technology) and Associate Professor Kevyn Collins-Thompson (University of Michigan–Ann Arbor)

Personal Information

Name: _____

Address: _____

E-Mail: _____

Student Information

Degree Program (MS, PhD, BS,): _____

Date entered current program: _____

Date degree will be completed: _____

University or College: _____

Department: _____

Applicant E-Mail: _____

Conference Information

Are you the primary author of a paper at the conference?____Yes____No

Title of your paper: _____

Paper type (full, short, poster, demo): _____

Will you present the paper?___Yes____No

Are you involved in any other way with the conference?____Yes____No

If so, how? _____