

Stephen Robertson

THE BRITISH LIBRARY

RESEARCH & DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT

FINAL REPORT

on

INTERNATIONAL RESEARCH FORUM IN
INFORMATION SCIENCE:
THE THEORETICAL BASIS OF INFORMATION SCIENCE
29 July - 2 August, 1975

compiled by

B.C. VICKERY, S.E. ROBERTSON
& N.J. BELKIN

REPORT NO. ~~5233~~ 5262

ORGANIZED BY: School of Library, Archive
& Information Studies
University College London

2.

K E Y W O R D S

Development of information science

Formalisms of information science

Informatics

Information science

Nature of information science

Phenomena of information science

Theories of information science

C O N T E N T S

	Page No.
Introduction	5
A personal note: B.C. Brookes	6
Needs identified by the Forum	8
Schedule of the Forum	10
INTRODUCTORY PAPER	12
The purpose of the Forum B.C. Brookes	13
THE KEYNOTE PAPERS	17
The phenomena of interest to information science G. Wersig and U. Neveling	18
What kind of science should information science be? B.C. Griffith	40
Hospitable formalisms R.A. Fairthorne	56
ABSTRACTS OF CONTRIBUTED PAPERS	60
30 July: N.J. Belkin & S.E. Robertson	61
R.T. Bottle	62
M. Dembowska	62
W. Goffman	64
31 July: S. Ceccato	65
W.S. Cooper	65
M. Kochen	66
K. Samuelson	67

	Page No.
1 August: M.H. Heine	68
F.F. Leimkuhler	68
M.F. Lynch	69
E. Wilkinson	69
 REPORTS OF REPORTING GROUPS	 70
Phenomena: S.E. Robertson	71
Kind of Science: M. Kochen	71
Formalisms: J.M. Griffiths	75
Implications for research: V. Horsnell	77
Implications for curriculum development: N.J. Belkin	78
 CONCLUDING PAPER	 80
Review and synthesis: B.C. Brookes	81
 APPENDIX	 90
List of participants	91